Maltreatment Report #: HL334263365M
Compliance #: HL334265417C

Date Concluded: December 22, 2022

Name, Address, and County of Licensee

Investigated:

Wildwood Assisted Living
1420 2nd Street North
Sauk Rapids, MN 56379
Benton County

Facility Type: Assisted Living Facility (ALF)

Evaluator's Name: Erin Johnson-Crosby, RN
Special Investigator

Finding: Inconclusive

Nature of Visit:

The Minnesota Department of Health investigated an allegation of maltreatment, in accordance with the Minnesota Reporting of Maltreatment of Vulnerable Adults Act, Minn. Stat. 626.557, and to evaluate compliance with applicable licensing standards for the provider type.

Initial Investigation Allegation(s):

The facility neglected the resident when the resident was bit by bed bugs causing cellulitis. The resident was later sent to the emergency room for worsening of cellulitis.

Investigative Findings and Conclusion:

The Minnesota Department of Health determined neglect was inconclusive. Nursing staff was aware of the bed bugs but did not complete an initial assessment or monitoring. It was unable to be determined if an initial assessment and monitoring would have prevented the resident's cellulitis.

The investigator conducted interviews with facility staff members, nursing staff, and unlicensed staff. The investigator also contacted the pest control company. The investigation included review of resident records, pest control records, and observations of the resident's skin.

The resident resided in an assisted living facility. The resident's diagnoses included diabetes, depression, and anxiety. The resident's service plan included assistance with bathing, medication administration, skin care and application of support stockings.

Facility staff identified bed bugs in the resident's room and reported this information to the nurse. Nursing staff contacted a pest control company who inspected and sprayed common areas in the facility to treat the bed bugs. The resident's room was not initially treated. As a result of further observation of bed bugs in the facility and the resident's room, the pest control company later returned and treated additional areas, including the resident's room.

Six days after the bed bugs were found, unlicensed staff observed the resident's legs were swollen and told the resident to wear compression stockings. The resident refused and stated it was too hard to wear them due to the bed bug bites.

Three days later, documentation completed by the unlicensed staff indicated the resident's legs were "ate up and bleeding" from the resident consistently scratching at her bites.

There was no documentation of an initial nursing assessment or monitoring of the resident's legs until 11 days after the bed bug bites were found. The provider was notified and diagnosed the resident with cellulitis on both lower legs. The provider prescribed two oral antibiotics and a cream to be applied to the resident's lower legs for treatment.

Two weeks later, the provider ordered an additional ointment to be applied to the resident's legs. The resident's record contained no information on the condition of the resident's legs or why another treatment was ordered.

Two days after the additional ointment was ordered, the resident's legs were itchy, warm to the touch and the resident was sent to the emergency room (ER) due to worsening cellulitis.

The resident returned to the facility with another prescription for an oral antibiotic. Following completion of the antibiotic, the resident's cellulitis resolved and the resident returned to baseline health status.

During an interview, Registered Nurse (RN) #1 acknowledged she was aware of the resident's bed bugs and indicated she only worked one or two days out of the week and that the other nurse (RN #2) should have been checking the resident's legs.

During an interview, RN#2 confirmed she was aware of the bed bugs but did not assess the resident's legs. RN#2 thought RN#1 was monitoring the area and indicated if any assessment or monitoring was completed it would have been documented in the resident's record.

The resident was interviewed and stated the bed bugs caused intense itching that "drove her crazy" and bites to her legs. The resident stated the pest control company eventually heat-treated her room and her legs healed. The resident indicated she is content with the services provided at the facility.

In conclusion, the Minnesota Department of Health determined neglect was inconclusive.

Inconclusive: Minnesota Statutes, section 626.5572, Subdivision 11.

"Inconclusive" means there is less than a preponderance of evidence to show that maltreatment did or did not occur.

This MN Requirement is not met as evidenced by: Based on interview and record review, the licensee failed to ensure care and services were provided according to an up-to-date service plan, and acceptable health care and medical, or nursing standards, and supervision for one of one resident (R1) reviewed. R1 was diagnosed with cellulitis from bed bug bites. This practice resulted in a level three violation (a violation that harmed a resident's health or safety, not including serious injury, impairment, or death, or a violation that has the potential to lead to serious injury, impairment, or death) and was issued at an isolated scope (when one or a limited number of residents are affected or one or a limited number of staff are involved or the situation has occurred only occasionally). The findings include: The Minnesota Adult Abuse Reporting Center Report indicated bed bugs were found in the resident's room by facility staff. Pest control was called and did not find any bed bugs. Eventually a colony of bed bugs were found near R1's room. R1 stayed in her apartment until the room was heat treated and had been getting bit by bed bugs	02320
