She revealed that many residents don't like that, especially the A hall residents, who are here for therapy. An interview on 12/30/2025 at 5:25 AM with Certified Nurse Aide (CNA) #1 revealed that we don't have access to the briefs if needed. The residents are given a certain amount of incontinence briefs in the morning and if they run out before the day is over then they have to wear a bed sheet. During an interview on 12/30/2025 at 5:30 AM, LPN #2 revealed that housekeeping passes out the briefs in the mornings. She revealed that a key is kept in the medication room, and the nurses will unlock the environmental room and retrieve the briefs for the aides. An observation of the environmental room alongside LPN #1 and LPN #2 revealed that no incontinent briefs were available in the locked room. In an interview on 12/30/25 at 5:35 AM, CNA #2 revealed it has been a big issue with not having briefs when we come on shift and we have complained about it. She revealed we have been told that we have to "bridge" the residents, we have to use a draw pad under them and then put a bedsheet between their legs and sheets across them. She revealed that if they have to urinate or have a bowel movement, they do it in those. She revealed that not all residents like that, and that Resident #4 has voiced her dislike, but there's not much we can do about it. She revealed that housekeeping comes in in the mornings and passes out the wipes and briefs for the whole day and night and if they run out then we don't have access to anymore. During an interview on 12/30/25 at 5:45 AM, laundry worker revealed that she passes the incontinent briefs and follows a list of residents' sizes provided by her housekeeping supervisor. She revealed we pass out six (6) briefs to the residents who are incontinent for a 24-hour period. In an interview on 12/30/25 at 5:50 AM, CNA #3 revealed there is a major shortage of briefs on the 11pm-7am shift. She revealed she used to work on the day shift, and it was nothing like this. We are told on night shift to "Bridge" the resident's meaning by putting a pad under them and a sheet over them when we run out of briefs. An interview on 12/30/25 at 6:05 AM, Housekeeper #1 stated that she "Passes out briefs in the morning, and	F0550

Everybody gets 6." During an interview on 12/30/25 at 8:05 AM, the Housekeeping Supervisor revealed that she is also a CNA but has been in the housekeeping supervisor role for about two (2) years. She revealed that they put out a certain number of adults briefs each morning, some residents get 6, some get eight (8), and some get 10. She revealed that when I took over this job, this was the way it was done. I don't fully understand it, but I do what the Director of Nursing (DON) has told me to do. I have questioned it in the past and was told that they wanted to "Bridge" the residents. She confirmed that the CNA's do not have access to the briefs, but that a key is hanging up in the medication room, and the nurse can go into the locked environmental room and get some extra briefs that she leaves for them. The Housekeeping Supervisor confirmed that there were not any extra briefs in the locked room this morning. In an interview on 12/30/25 at 10:35 AM, the DON confirmed that Resident #4 was incontinent, and she preferred to wear briefs. The DON stated, "They have plenty of briefs at night, and they can access the environmental room for any additional supplies that they need although we try to do 'open air' during night shift, it's where we don't put briefs on them and just let them air out." She revealed all of our non-cognitive residents; we don't put on briefs at night. She revealed that she had never asked the residents what their preferences were and further confirmed that there were not any briefs this morning in the locked environmental room that the staff could access briefs for the incontinent residents. Resident #1 An observation on 12/30/25 at 7:30 AM revealed Resident #1 lying in bed with only a shirt on, and his lower extremities from the waist down are exposed with just a white sheet lying across his lower abdomen and private area. An observation and interview on 12/30/25 at 7:35 AM, CNA #4 confirmed that Resident #1 was lying in bed with a sheet across his private area and no incontinent brief on. She revealed that the brief situation has been very interesting here. They are given a certain amount in the morning, and it has to last them through the next morning. She revealed it has really made it hard on us aides and we don't like it.	F0550

Resident #4 revealed that for what I'm paying to be in this facility, they should be providing my diapers. Resident #4 stated, "Will you please do something about this?" The resident further revealed that she hasn't gone to upper management because "I try to get along, and I figured it wouldn't do any good anyway."
